Rest in perfect peace in the Lord Jesus Christ till the resurrection morning, Elder James Kwasi Nsowah (aka Kwasi Adusei / Walaa)

Forever Loved.
Forever Remembered.
Forever In our Hearts.

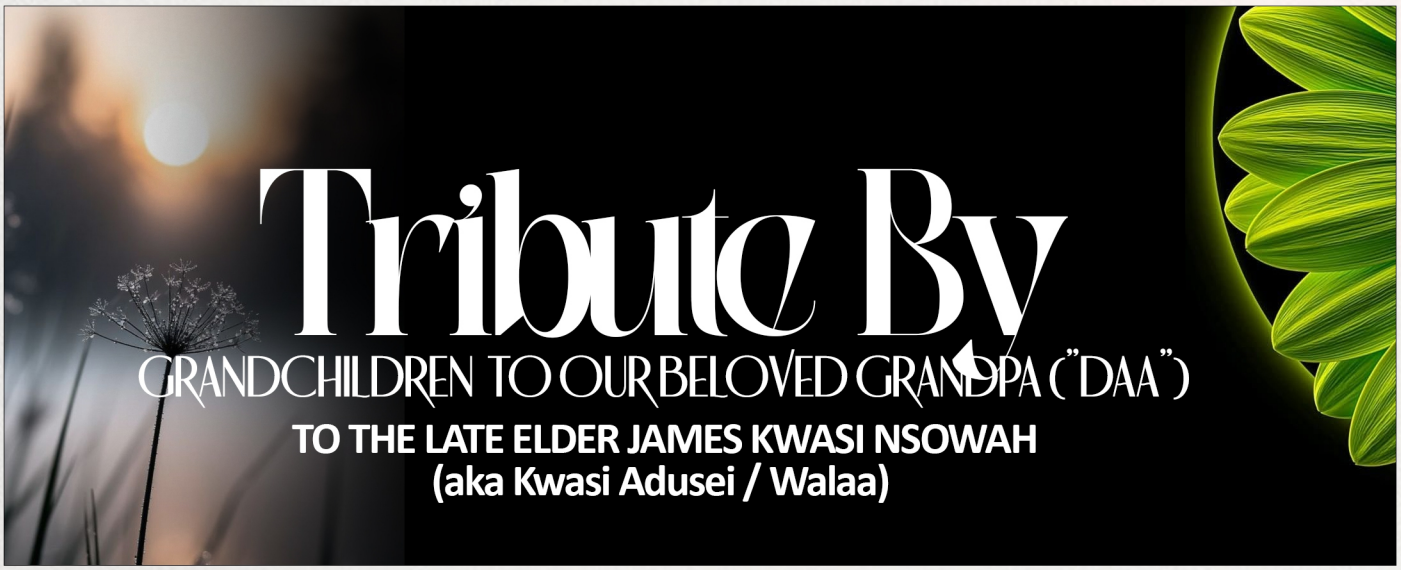

"Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints." — Psalm 116:15

Today, we stand with heavy yet deeply grateful hearts to honor a man who was far more than a grandfather to us. He was our anchor, our protector, and a quiet pillar of strength whose love shaped the very fabric of our lives.

In our home, we didn't just call him Grandpa; we called him Daa. That name carried a weight far beyond a title. Daa never let us feel like mere grandchildren; he treated us with the profound devotion of a father. His love wasn't measured in grand speeches, but in the steadfast way he showed up every single day—in his watchful eye, his gentle corrections, his comforting presence, and the countless small acts of care we so easily took for granted, believing he would always be there. Now, when we look around our home, there is a space that only he can fill, and a silence that words cannot capture.

Daa, you gave us memories that time cannot erase. We hear your voice in our minds, we remember your laughter, and we carry your wisdom like a compass. Saying goodbye to you feels unnatural. It is hard to imagine family gatherings, celebrations, and quiet afternoons without your familiar presence, knowing we can no longer look for you in the room.

We pray for God's comfort and grace to carry us through this season, and we take solace knowing that your life truly mattered. Give our regards to our Super Grandma, Maame Sefaa. Thank you both for shaping us, loving us, and leaving an irreplaceable mark on our lives. Rest in perfect peace, Daa. Until we meet again.

Yet, even in our grief, we choose to celebrate the extraordinary gift of your life. You taught us that true family isn't just about blood lines—it is about action, sacrifice, and presence. You showed us what it means to make others feel seen, valued, and secure. You fought your fight, ran your race, and left behind a legacy that death cannot touch.
